

Essays for sale

What is an Essay for sale?

In this case, the basis is the compositional features of the work performed in the genre of essay. Finally, a classification of essays into two large groups is proposed: the Essay of a young specialist on a certain topic belongs to the second group.

Some common features of the genre, which are usually listed in encyclopedias and dictionaries: Of course, there are no rigid boundaries. The volume of the essay - from essay what is the abstract and how to write it to seven pages of computer text. For example, in a Harvard essay what is an essay and how to write it business essays are often written in just two pages. A specific topic and emphasized its subjective interpretation.

The theme of the essay is always specific. Essays may not contain a lot of topics and ideas or thoughts. It reflects only one option, one thought. That answers one question.

Free composition is an important feature of the essay. The researchers note that the essay by its nature is designed so that it does not tolerate any formal framework. It is often built contrary to the laws of logic, subject to arbitrary associations, guided by the principle of "All the way around". It is important for the author of the essay to establish a confidential style of communication with the reader; to be understood, he avoids deliberately complicated, unclear, excessively strict constructions.

The researchers note that a good essay can only be written by someone who is fluent in the topic, sees it from different sides and is ready to present the reader with not an exhaustive, but a multidimensional view of the phenomenon that became the starting point of his reflections.

The essay is intended to surprise the reader - it is, according to many researchers, its mandatory quality. The starting point for reflection, embodied in the essay, is often an aphoristic, vivid statement or paradoxical definition, literally colliding at first glance indisputable, but mutually exclusive statements, characteristics, theses.

Internal semantic unity is possible, it is one of the paradoxes of the genre. The essay, which is free in composition and focused on subjectivity, at the same time has an internal semantic unity, that is, the consistency of key theses and statements, the internal harmony of arguments and associations, the consistency of those judgments in which the author's personal position is expressed. At the same time, it is necessary to avoid the use of slang in the essay, formulaic phrases, abbreviations of words, too frivolous tone.

Recommendations

The language used in writing the essay should be taken seriously. So, when writing an essay it is important to determine to understand its topic, to determine the desired scope and purpose of each paragraph. Start with the main idea or a bright phrase. The task is to immediately capture the reader's attention of the listener.

It often uses a comparative allegory, when an unexpected fact or event is associated with the main theme of the essay.

From the formal rules of writing an essay can be called only one - the presence of the title. The internal structure of the essay can be arbitrary.

Since this is a small form of written work, it is not necessary to repeat the conclusions at the end, they can be included in the main text or in the title. The argument may precede the formulation of the problem. The formulation of the problem may coincide with the final conclusion.

Unlike the essay, which is addressed to any reader, so it starts with "I want to tell." That is, a person who in General already represents what will be discussed.

- In your essays you tell the story of success, specify the reasons why you want to build your career in the direction that you have chosen;
- Examples that should not be "take note";
- Small deviation.

This allows the author of the essay to focus on the disclosure of the new and not clutter up the presentation of official details. Errors in writing essays unlike tests, essays do not assume the multiple-choice format when you are offered a choice of several answers.